

Grants for Teaching Sabbaticals

The purpose of Grants for Teaching Sabbaticals is to further develop Swedish higher education. STINT wants to contribute to educational renewal and the creation of new networks by giving Swedish researchers and university lecturers, who are passionate about education, international experiences relevant to their teaching role.

Selected participants will teach at a foreign higher education institution (HEI) of their own choice. Applicants organise the teaching sabbatical themselves. By participating in the planning and implementation of teaching, the aim is to gain understanding of learning and teaching policies and of how these institutions implement and develop learning and teaching processes and address educational quality standards.

The participants' experiences will then support the further development of Swedish faculties and universities. There is great emphasis on involving the university leadership and using returning lecturers' experiences in various ways to make positive dissemination impacts. Continuing relationships between Swedish and foreign institutions are welcomed.

Formal terms

The following requirements must be met for the application to be considered:

2. The stay abroad includes direct involvement in teaching activities at the hosting HEI
3. The applicant will be available full-time (100%) for duties at the hosting HEI
4. The proposed stay abroad (to be co-funded by STINT) is continuous and between 2 and 5 months. Longer stays are permitted but additional funding must be obtained from other sources

The complete application including all appendices will be reviewed. All documents must be in English.

Budget guidelines

STINT co-funds the teaching sabbatical for the applicant and accompanying family members for up to five months. Eligible costs in the application are:

- Return trip economy class between Sweden and the host HEI
- Accommodation
- Visa, vaccinations and similar
- Compensation for additional costs abroad ("Merkostnadstillägg") as well as compensation for any loss of income by accompanying family members ("Medföljandetillägg") as per the URA government contract and the Swedish Tax Agency (<https://www.arbetsgivarverket.se/avtal--skrifter/avtal/ura-avtal-om-utlandskontrakt-och-riktlinjer-for-anstallningsvillkor-vid-tjanstgoring-utomlands/>)
- Contribution to the Swedish HEI for the hiring of a substitute lecturer during the participant's absence at a maximum of SEK 50,000 per month. If the hosting HEI covers the participant's salary during the stay abroad, which is considered a strong indication of its involvement (see review criteria), this contribution is not applicable
- Contribution to overhead costs of SEK 100,000 pro rata per annum are permitted (the amount will be proportionately reduced for shorter periods. Example: if the duration of the teaching sabbatical is three months, the accepted overhead is $3/12 * 100,000 = 25,000$).

If the review is to be favourable, the budget and practical arrangements should be reasonable and specific.

Project implementation and final report

A decision on the results of the assessment will be given within about three months of the closing date. Grants are paid after the contract has been signed and returned to STINT. A final report is to be submitted to STINT within one month of returning from the teaching sabbatical. The final report is submitted through the application and report system. Participants will be invited to activities organised within the Teaching Sabbatical programme and join the large and growing group of programme alumni.
